

WHEN DAVID LOST HIS VOICE / Judith Vanistendael
“A heartfelt, uplifting portrayal of a family preparing for life after David”

Published in hardback on May 3rd 2012 / ISBN 978-1-906838-54-6 / £16.99

About the book:

The moment his granddaughter Louise is born, David learns that he has cancer. But words were never his forte, and he'd rather keep quiet about his illness, the pain and the end that awaits him – much to the frustration of the women in his life. They wait, powerless, for the silent but inexorable end.

“This is an amazing book, one of the best published by SelfMadeHero so far.”

Rachel Cooke, The Observer

“Vanistendael displays a sense of storytelling that is in perfect sync with the text, drawings and story. It creates a perfect emotional rhythm for the reader to latch onto.”

Bart Croonenborghs, BrokenFrontier

About the author/ artist:

Judith Vanistendael (b. 1974) is a Belgian author of graphic novels and an illustrator. She became an instant hit with her first graphic novel, published in English by SelfMadeHero as Dance by the Light of the Moon, in which she tells a love story between a Togolese political refugee and a young Belgian girl. This work, originally in two volumes, was nominated twice at Angoulême, and has been translated into many languages. Judith also illustrates children's books.

About the translator:

Nora Mahony translates from Italian and French and works as a freelance editor. Based in Dublin, she runs Parkbench Publishing Services, which specialises in literary translation from a range of languages.

About the publisher:

SelfMadeHero is a publisher of the finest fiction, biography, history and humour in the graphic novel medium. Showcasing leading authors and artists from around the world: from the quirky and humorous to the political and profound.
